STORSEN DIGITAL

Case Study: How a Staffing & HR Firm Cut Resume Screening Time by 90% Using AI?

The Client

Storsen Digital is an international nearshoring and outsourcing services provider headquartered in Prague, Czech Republic.

Storsen Digital offers a comprehensive suite of services, from talent acquisition and recruitment to managed BPO services across HR, finance, IT, customer support, and software development.

Their core goal was to scale resume filtering and hiring without increasing recruiter workload, while maintaining accuracy and speed in candidate shortlisting.

The Challenge

Before adopting OneReap, the client's resume screening process was heavily manual and time-consuming:

- Recruiters spent hours reviewing resumes for every open role
- High volumes of applications led to delays and recruiter burnout
- Matching resumes accurately against job descriptions was inconsistent
- Time-to-shortlist was slowing down client hiring timelines

With hiring volumes increasing, the team needed a faster, smarter way to screen candidates without compromising quality.

The Solution

The client implemented OneReap's AI-powered resume screening solution, designed to automatically evaluate resumes against specific job descriptions.

Key capabilities included:

- AI-based resume parsing and JD matching
- Automated shortlisting based on skills, experience, and role fit
- Intelligent ranking of candidates in seconds
- Seamless integration into existing recruitment workflows

By letting AI handle the first layer of screening, recruiters could focus on interviews, candidate engagement, and client communication.

The Results

The impact was immediate and measurable:

- 90% reduction in manual resume screening time
- Shortlisting completed in minutes instead of hours
- Improved consistency and accuracy in candidate matching
- Recruiters able to handle significantly higher hiring volumes without added cost

What earlier took days of manual effort was reduced to a fast, automated workflow powered by AI.
